

ABOUT BEEKEEPER'S NATURALS

We're reinventing the medicine cabinet with clean, effective products that work – and saving the bees. Carly Stein founded Beekeeper's Naturals in 2017 after discovering propolis abroad, the defender of the beehive, which is known for its antimicrobial and antifungal properties and high antioxidant content.

She quickly learned how this natural ingredient could improve our health, and left her corporate career to dedicate her life to full-time beekeeping and bringing propolis to the masses in sustainable and accessible ways. Today, we're harnessing the power of the hive to create health and wellness products that merge modern science with natural medicine.

PROPOLIS

Propolis is a resin-like material made by bees from the buds of poplar and cone-bearing trees. Bees use it to line the walls of the hive and keep germs out. It delivers powerful antioxidants, like flavonoids and polyphenols, vitamins, minerals, and over 300 other compounds that support our immune system and protect against free radicals and oxidative stress. It's also a prebiotic that feeds that good bacteria in the gut.

BUCKWHEAT HONEY

Buckwheat honey offers antioxidants and soothing properties. It has even been shown to possess therapeutic benefits that rival those of widely-acclaimed manuka honey.

ELDERBERRY

One of the most well-known medicinal plants, elderberries support your immune system with antioxidants and vitamins.

VITAMIN D

The sunshine vitamin doesn't just light up your mood and promote bone health, it also helps support your immune system.
